

Carmen Lopez holds a Phd. of Arts in French Language and Literature from University of Nice, France where she currently resides. She is the managing director of CEFRO, Ltd., responsible for creating and organizing training courses for the European Union program « Grundtvig » and recently for « Erasmus+ », which combines all EU's current cultural initiatives in education and training.

Carmen has over 25 years of experience as French teacher. She has a Bachelor of Arts in Philology, French Language and Literature from University of Bucharest, Romania and holds a Diploma of Advanced studies in Education from University of Iasi, Romania.

Her essays on literature, translations, professional works on social psychology and book « Nice, mon amour...? » have been published in both France and Romania. Since 2008, she is creating and conducting CEFRO training sessions validated by the EU National French Agency and published in the database of the European Education Programs. These courses are designed to encourage developing Emotional Intelligence in the workplace and have had participants from more than 10 European Countries.

<http://elargissement-ro.hautetfort.com>

www.cefro.pro